CONDUCTOR & SOLOISTS

GUEST CONDUCTOR: OVIDIU MARINESCU (conductor, cello soloist) is internationally recognized as a cellist, composer, conductor, and educator. He has appeared as conductor and as cello soloist at Carnegie Hall, the Great Hall of the Moscow Conservatory, in Shanghai, throughout Brazil, the United States, and his native Romania, and in many other major cultural centers, and his original compositions have been performed worldwide. He has also recorded J.S. Bach's complete Suites for solo Cello and recently released a recording with the London Symphony Orchestra in eight newly commissioned cello concertos. Mr. Marinescu's ongoing MOTO series, developed with Parma Recordings, has premiered works by nearly three dozen composers in both recordings and performance at Carnegie Hall. He is professor of cello at West Chester University (hometown of composer Samuel Barber) in Pennsylvania as well as founder and Artistic Director of the International Musicians Academy, an intensive program for aspiring artists.

LORI HOROWITZ (violin, soloist) began her musical training at the Westchester Conservatory of Music with Gabriel Banat. As a high school senior, during a foreign exchange program to Brazil, she served as a volunteer member of the São Paulo State Symphony Orchestra. Lori continued her musical studies at Oberlin College before deciding to pursue a medical career. While in medical school she was a founding member of, and soloist with, the Albert Einstein Symphony Orchestra. Music proved to be a wonderful antidote to the stress of medical and post-medical training. During those years she played at various times with the Riverside Orchestra, the New Amsterdam Symphony, the 92nd St. Y Orchestra, the Bronx Chamber Orchestra and the Bronx Opera Company. Since settling back in Westchester, Lori has enjoyed a longstanding involvement with the St. Thomas Orchestra and serves as their concertmaster. She has also played with The Chappaqua Orchestra, now known as Orchestra 914. Decades later, Lori discovered music to be the best defense against a looming mid-life crisis. She returned to school to pursue her musical studies more formally, enrolling at Purchase College where she earned a Performer's Certificate in 2014 and a Master's Degree in Violin Performance in 2016. She enjoys performing in chamber music concerts around the county, including with the RiverArts Music Tour, and is a founding member of Westchester Chamber Soloists. Lori continues her violin studies with Calvin Wiersma. When not playing her violin, Lori maintains a practice of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry here in Westchester.

YOLANDA F. JOHNSON (soprano) has had an outstanding career as a performing artist and philanthropist; as a composer, as an educator, and as a supporter of the arts and women's equity. She completed her Bachelors degree in voice performance and graduate studies in voice, and an M.A. in Arts Management. Yolanda has performed nationally and internationally in many musical venues including opera, concert, oratorio and sacred music. She is an active recitalist/lecturer on several musical subjects, specifically spirituals as related to the Underground Railroad and the works of women composers. Yolanda has recorded an album of Spirituals, Feel the Spirit! and co-created Music She Wrote, a celebration of women composers, with colleagues, Dr. Brooke Bryant and Dr. Michael Eisenberg. She also actively composes new musical works. Yolanda made her New York City debut as Zerlina in Mozart's Don Giovanni and has performed in many venues and with various presenters across the country. Among the roles she has portrayed are: Magda Sorel in The Consul, Anita Hill in Ben Yarmolinsky's Clarence and Anita with Underworld Productions Opera Outreach, Noemie in Massenet's Cendrillon with New York Lyric Opera and Millie in Harriet Tubman: When I Crossed that Line to Freedom by Nkeiru Okoye. Yolanda is a member of the Sigma Alpha Iota International Women's Music Fraternity and has more than a decade of experience as a worship leader and church music director. She has been a featured presenter at Performing the World International Performing Arts Conference. She was also on the voice and music composition faculty at the Mozartina Music Conservatory. In addition to her life as an artist, Yolanda is also a current International Advisory Board member of and the former Representative for the Foundation for Post-Conflict Development to the United Nations, a member of the board of trustees of the Hudson River Museum, Special Advisor to the American Composers Orchestra, board of directors of PowHer NY, board of directors of the Lehman College Art Gallery and was the first African American President in the more than 40-year history of Women In Development, New York. Yolanda is also the Founder and President of YFJ Consulting, LLC and Founder of Women of Color in Fundraising and Philanthropy (WOC)® and Allies in Action Membership Network™. With her successful performance background as the basis, Yolanda created All the World's A Stage, a workshop that uses performance practice for confidence building, public speaking, and making the ask for yourself both personally and professionally. www.yolandafjohnson.com.

ALAN MURRAY (piano, soloist) is founder and Executive & Artistic Director of Westchester Chamber Soloists (WCS). Alan has appeared extensively in solo and chamber music recitals and as concerto soloist with symphony orchestras in the US and Europe, performing 60 Concertos to date, including those of Bartók, Beethoven, Brahms, Chopin, Dvořák, Fauré, Franck, Gershwin, Liszt, Prokofiev, Ravel, Rachmaninoff, Saint-Saëns, Scriabin, Strauss and Tchaikovsky, and recording in 2020 the complete cycle of Mozart's solo Piano Concertos as part of a YouTube-based "At-Home" pandemic-period concert series. His concerto performances are all available on the WCS and Studio-Hollywood.com websites. A dedicated chamber musician, Alan – together with WCS & Friends - has been a regular participant at the RiverArts' Annual Music Tour in the lower Hudson Valley, performing a diverse array of more than 50 chamber music masterpieces, from duos and trios through nonets, for piano, strings, winds and brass, and including Beethoven's and Brahms' complete Sonatas for Violin & Piano and for Cello & Piano, which are also available on the WCS website. As piano soloist, his Masters Series and Sunrise Series concerts in lower Westchester County, encompassed the complete cycles of major works by Chopin, Schumann, Debussy, Ravel and J.S. Bach as well as Beethoven's 32 Piano Sonatas and Diabelli Variations in a series of 40 recital programs. He plans to return to presenting solo performances in the 2024-25 season. Alan holds a degree in physics/cosmology and languages from Cornell University, where he also received a special University Award for distinguished piano recital soloist. His career has focused on insurance, risk analytics and capital markets, initially in the corporate actuarial group at AIG, and subsequently for more than 25 years as part of the analytics and management teams at ratings firm Moody's Investors Service; he is currently a member of management at Insurance Ratings & Research firm AM Best. Alan resides in Hastings with his wife Amada and daughter Celia, where they also long owned and operated Galápagos Books, a specialty bookstore originally focused on literature and language-learning materials in over 80 world languages that finally closed its doors in April 2023 after 35 years and is the underwriter of WCS' final concert for the Spring 2023 season.
