Brandenburg Concertos (January 2023)

BENJAMIN ACRISH (trumpet) has been performing on trumpet for over 30 years. He attended the Crane School of Music and holds a Masters of Fine Art from the Purchase Conservatory of Music where he studied with jazz greats Ray Vega, Jim Rotondi and Jon Faddis. Since moving to Westchester in 2005 he has established himself as a top call musician, playing a diverse range of styles including, classical, jazz, and rock. He is a regular member of several award winning local ensembles, including the Westchester Symphonic Wind and the Benson-Scott Big Band. He has most recently founded a NOLA inspired brass band - The Bear Mountain Brass. Mr. Acrish is a dedicated music teacher and currently works in the Hendrick Hudson School District where he is the High School Band Director and guitar instructor. His students and music department have been the recipients of numerous awards, including NAMM's "Best Communities for Music Education" for the last 4 years. Benjamin Acrish lives in Croton-on-Hudson with his wife, Karen, and their two girls Abigail and Aliya.

KATE ASHBY (violin) is co-Artistic Director of Westchester Chamber Soloists and as a co-founder of the ensemble has played a leading role in producing our annual chamber music and orchestral programs since 2018. In October 2022, Kate joined the staff of the new David Rockefeller Creative Arts Center at The Pocantico Center. She previously served as Artistic Director and Music Program Director of RiverArts and was a co-Producer of the RiverArts Music Tour. From 2018-2020, Kate was an Associate at Primo Artists in New York, coordinating engagements for international classical soloists and conductors. Kate is a member of the Yonkers Philharmonic Orchestra and has performed widely with chamber vocal ensembles in the New York area, including Monteverdi's Vespers at Concordia and Bach's St. John Passion at Lincoln Center. Kate moved to New York from London in 1995 to pursue a career in modern dance and performed with Pilobolus in Mozart's Die Zauberflöte, directed by John Eliot Gardiner, as well as in performances with Robert Battle, Parsons Dance Company, Merce Cunningham Repertory Group and others. Highlights include performances at the Amsterdam Concertgebouw, Queen Elizabeth Hall, Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center. A native of Liverpool, England, Kate holds a BA Honors Degree from University of Kent at Canterbury.

THOMAS BASTONE (bass) is a musician and music educator originally from White Plains, NY. He is currently the orchestra director at Harrison High School. Prior to his appointment in Harrison, he taught instrumental and general music in the Ossining and Spackenkill UFSDs, as well as with the Philadelphia String Project. An active freelancer in the Tri-State area, he is principal bass of the Taconic Opera Orchestra and the Yonkers Philharmonic Orchestra, and has also performed with the Woodstock and the Northern Dutchess Symphonies. He has also been heard playing in the pit orchestras for various musicals at the White Plains Performing Arts Center in White Plains, and Westchester Broadway Theater in Elmsford. Mr. Bastone has been fortunate to perform overseas, with the AIMS Festival Orchestra in Graz, Austria, and the Siena (January 2023) Music Festival Symphony and Opera Orchestras in Tuscany. Additionally, Mr. Bastone is an active member of several professional organizations, including NAFME, NYSSMA, ASTA and WCSMA. He was invited to present at the ASTA National Conferences in 2012 (Atlanta, GA) and 2013 (Providence, RI) regarding his work with the Philadelphia String Project. Mr. Bastone received a Bachelor of Music in Music Education at Temple University's Boyer College of Music and Dance in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where he studied double bass with Robert Kesselman of the Philadelphia Orchestra. He earned a Masters Degree in Music Education at the University of the Arts in Philadelphia.

CHARLIE BENNETT (cello) was born and raised in Buffalo, NY. He began cello lessons with Bruce Cramer and later studied with Roman Mekinulov. An early interest in jazz led him to also study the bass with Bill Staebell. Mr. Bennett has degrees from the Crane School of Music at SUNY Potsdam and the University of Texas at Austin. In Austin, he did extensive chamber music study with the Miró Quartet. He has taken lessons with Erik Friedlander and performed in master classes for Matthew Haimovitz and David Litrell. As a performer, Mr. Bennett has worked with a number of orchestras including the Orchestra of Northern New York and the Round Rock Symphony. He enjoys exploring the rich musical world of string playing and can be found sitting in with various folk, jazz and rock groups, performing in musicals, and playing chamber music with friends. Most recently, he founded Taproom Chamber Music, which brings live chamber music to local breweries and informal performance spaces. Currently, Mr. Bennett is a string instructor in the Harrison Central School district and teaches privately through the Hudson River School of Music. Outside of teaching and performing, he has coached high school track and cross country, and organized a summer youth track program. Mr. Bennett is an avid runner, and enjoys reading, the outdoors, and spending time with his wife, son and two pet goats.

LARISSA BLITZ (violin) was born in St. Petersburg, Russia and received her degree from the St. Petersburg's Conservatory, where she also worked at the St. Petersburg Opera House and maintained a private teaching studio. She received her Masters degree from the Manhattan School of Music, studying with Rafael Bronstein and Ariana Bronne. Since then, Ms. Blitz has had an extensive performing and teaching career playing in orchestras such as the Brooklyn Philharmonic, the Springfield, Stamford and Savannah Symphonies, the Berkshire Opera, and the Manchester Music Festival and Tchaikovsky Chamber Orchestras, among others. She worked on Broadway and as concertmaster in a touring production of "Fiddler on the Roof". Her recent solo and chamber music performances include Beethoven's violin sonatas, trios by Rachmaninoff and Quartets by Faure, including appearances at the annual RiverArts Music Tour. Ms. Blitz teaches at a private studio in New Jersey and with the Spring Creek Youth Orchestra in Brooklyn, NY, among other venues and was previously on the faculty with RiverArts and at Franklin Pierce University.

DOROTHY DARLINGTON (oboe/English horn) was born in New York City but spent about half her upbringing in Lake Placid where she began her oboe studies. She holds three degrees in music and has performed with the Costa Rica, Savannah, Jacksonville and Atlanta Symphonies, after which she joined the US Marine Band known as "The President's Own" for 6 years for White House duties and tours to Europe under President Reagan. Finding the military commitment too intensive to consider starting a family, she free-lanced with Wolf Trap, the National Symphony (at Kennedy Center) and the Washington Bach Consort among others, as well as a serving as a long-term alternate with the New York Philharmonic. Dorothy has been a member of the Ridgefield Symphony for 35 years and recently performed for an entire weekend in Carnegie Hall. She has two sons, age 29 and 25, and she thinks they are the best thing that ever happened to her!

RUTH DIAMOND FABES (oboe) earned a B.M. in Music Education SUNY Fredonia and an M.M.E. at the Hartt School of Music. She retired from the New York City Dept. of Education after 30 years as a Teacher of Instrumental Music and Chorus in Junior High Schools. Ruth is currently Coordinator of "Live in HD" at Monmouth University, and performs with the New Jersey Wind Symphony while also teaching senior citizens, performing with local orchestras, and volunteering, when time and distance allows. She lives in Staten Island, NY with her husband, Keith, and Ruby the Doberman. During the pandemic lockdown, Ruth learned how to sew and make quilts (discovering that it's easier than making oboe reeds!).

MONICA GERARD (viola) has performed with the Brooklyn Philharmonic, Orchestra of St. Luke's, American Composer's Orchestra, Westchester Philharmonic, American Ballet Theater, Stamford Symphony, and New Jersey Symphony. As a baroque violist, she has performed and recorded with the Hanoverian Ensemble. She has served on the faculties of the Hoff-Barthelsson Music School and Hudson River School of Music and currently maintains a large private studio of viola and violin students. Her primary teachers have included Raphael Hillyer, Jesse Levine, Karen Tuttle, Kim Kashkashian, and Hatto Beyerle. Ms. Gerard holds a Bachelor of Arts in Music from Yale College, a Master of Music in Viola from the Yale School of Music and studied as a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Music and Performing Arts in Vienna, Austria.

ELLEN GRUBER (oboe) is a New York City-based oboist, currently studying Orchestral Performance with Sherry Sylar at the Manhattan School of Music. She previously attended the Peabody Institute, where she obtained degrees in oboe performance, recording arts and sciences, and acoustics. Ellen has played in a variety of ensembles, including the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, the MSM Symphony Orchestra, and the Peabody Symphony Orchestra. She has also attended several music festivals and masterclasses, including Interharmony Music Festival, Hidden Valley Music Seminar and Eastern Music Festival. Ellen was part of Peabody's Inaugural Sensory Friendly Performance Project, where she played chamber music in a concert with the Musical Autist, an organization of musicians with autism. She has performed chamber music in other settings as well, including on Peabody's Friday Noon:30 concert series and on a Showcase concert at Interharmony in Aquil Terme, Italy. In her spare time, Ellen loves to cook and bake, as well as play with her dog, Henry.

AMY HERSH (flute) has an active career that combines her love of chamber music, orchestral performance and teaching. The New York Times has written that Ms. Hersh "...plays the flute...with directness and an ear for subtlety." She began her career playing flute and piccolo in the Mexico City Philharmonic and since then has performed with many ensembles, including the NJ Symphony, Long Island Philharmonic, New York Gilbert and Sullivan players, and with various Broadway pit orchestras. She currently plays with the St. George's Choral Society and Hudson Valley Philharmonic and is a member of chamber ensembles The Virtuosi Woodwind Quintet and the Cara Quartet. Ms. Hersh made her New York debut at Carnegie's Weill Hall as an Artist's International-winning member of the "Venus Trio", a group of flute, harp, and mezzo-soprano. She was also a winner of the NY Flute Club competition, performing in CAMI Hall. She earned Bachelors and Masters degrees from the Manhattan School of Music, and attended international programs in Nice, France and Canada, studying with Alain Marion and Robert Stallman. Her teachers have included Carol Wincenc, Harold Bennett, and Harvey Sollberger. She is an advanced level Suzuki flute teacher and teaches at the Hackley School in Tarrytown and at her home studio.

MARJORIE HONE (flute) grew up in Ohio and after graduating from Michigan State University she taught social studies in the Marietta, Ohio school district and later worked as assistant to the Director of Libraries at Columbia University. She studied flute with William Hebert, Paige Brook, Judith Mendenhall and Eleanor Lawrence and most recently with Sandra Miller. She served as principal flutist in the Westchester Symphonic Winds for over 20 years and is a long-time board member, including serving as president from 1995-2005 and now serving as treasurer. She has also played piccolo with the Chappaqua Orchestra, sings in her church choir, and was a member of the Westchester Symphony for many years. She maintains a private studio in Irvington and is active as a chamber musician and soloist, including many performances for the Hudson Valley Music Club. She has been active in her church and in community organizations, including chairing the PTSA, Irvington Town Hall Theater, Inc., the Irvington Drug Abuse Council, and the Hudson Valley Music Club. She also is a member of the Thursday Club charitable group. Her other passions include whitewater kayaking, swimming, Pilates, and enjoying her granddaughters.

LORI HOROWITZ (violin) began her musical training at the Westchester Conservatory of Music with Gabriel Banat. As a high school senior, during a foreign exchange program to Brazil, she served as a volunteer member of the São Paulo State Symphony Orchestra. Lori continued her musical studies at Oberlin College before embarking on a medical career. While in medical school she was a founding member of, and soloist with, the Albert Einstein Symphony Orchestra. During her medical and post-medical training, she also performed with the Riverside Orchestra, the New Amsterdam Symphony, The 92nd Street Y Orchestra, and the Bronx Chamber Orchestra. Since settling back in Westchester, Lori has enjoyed a longstanding involvement with the St. Thomas Orchestra and serves as their concertmaster. She has also played with The Chappaqua Orchestra, now known as Orchestra 914. In 2013 Lori returned to school to pursue her musical studies more formally at Purchase College where she earned a Performer's Certificate and a Master's Degree in Violin Performance. She enjoys performing in chamber music concerts around the county, including with the River Arts Music Tour. When not playing her violin, Lori maintains a practice of Child & Adolescent Psychiatry.

TOM JORDAN (French horn) began playing the horn as a child, never dreaming it would lead him down such interesting paths. He studied Music at Gettysburg College, The Hartt School of Music, and Western Connecticut State University, and enjoyed 40 years of teaching music in Isabel and Mobridge, South Dakota, New Canaan, Connecticut, and Mamaroneck, New York. He has played in numerous ensembles and settings, but currently enjoys playing horn with the American Chamber Orchestra, The Westport Community Band, the Connecticut Symphonic Winds, The Vintage Brass Quintet, the Fairfield County Brass, and on guitar, in a duo with his wife on flute at St. John's Lutheran Church in Stamford, CT.

PAUL-LUCIEN KULKA (flute) is member, arranger and adapter of the "New-York Metropolitan Flute trio" and was a member of the French National Police Orchestra before moving to New York in 2019. His musical education began at the age of 6 in Saint-Raphaël, France, and he entered the Nice Conservatory at age 14 in the flute class of Jean Ornetti, where he was awarded a 1st Prize Gold Medal in 1979. The following year, Mr. Kulka won the Prize for the town of Nice. Mr. Kulka went on to study at the Regional Conservatory of Lyon under the tutelage of Marius Beuf, and he received the Lyon

Regional Conservatory's Gold Medal upon his graduation in 1982. He also studied with Alain Marion in the Nice Summer Music Academia and with Christian Lardé at the Paris Music Academia. Mr. Kulka was an educator in several music schools in the Lyon area and moved to Paris upon winning the seat in the prestigious French National Police Orchestra, with whom he toured Japan and Morocco. Playing flute and piccolo, Mr. Kulka also performed with The RATP Orchestra (Subway Orchestra of Paris), the Synaxis Orchestra in Rousse, Bulgaria, and as a soloist with a variety of other ensembles. Since relocating to New York in 2019, Mr. Kulka has been a member of the Lehman College & Community Concert Band, the Yonkers Philharmonic Orchestra, the Brooklyn Woodwind Symphony (until Dec. 2022), the New Westchester Symphony Orchestra and the Flute Choir of New York.
